If you're looking for deep strokes targeting the inner layers of the muscles and the connective tissues, or to treat musculoskeletal issues, recover from sports injuries, and break down tight knots and stiffness of the body with strong pressure—then our Deep Tissue Massage services are the most appropriate therapy for you. Our skilled massage therapists apply precise pressure on affected areas to relieve pain and restore natural body function.

What is Deep Tissue Massage?

Unlike a Swedish Massage, which uses light to medium pressure for relaxation, Deep Tissue Massage uses slow, firm strokes and friction to reach deeper layers of muscle fibers and fascia. This technique is especially effective for chronic pain, injuries, or postural problems. It enhances mobility, improves blood circulation, and helps remove toxins stored in the muscles. Reviews

Surprisingly quite & serene place in the midst of noisy central Kathmandu (Tamel). I took a deep tissue massage and personal sound healing session. I am very happy with results and feel fantastic ☺ I highly recommend services of this Institute for its professionalism and amazing service. P.S. great value for money

Frequently Asked Questions

What is a Deep Tissue Massage and how is it different from a regular massage?

Deep Tissue Massage focuses on deeper layers of muscles and connective tissues, using slow, firm strokes to relieve chronic pain and stiffness. Unlike Swedish Massage, which is more relaxing and uses light to medium pressure, Deep Tissue targets specific problem areas such as knots, tension, or injury recovery points.

Is Deep Tissue Massage painful?

It's normal to feel mild discomfort during a Deep Tissue Massage as your therapist works through tight or knotted muscles. However, it should never be unbearably painful. At the Institute of Natural Medicine in Kathmandu, our therapists adjust pressure based on your comfort level to ensure maximum therapeutic benefit with minimal discomfort.

How often should I get a Deep Tissue Massage?

For chronic tension or pain, weekly sessions may be ideal at first. For maintenance and relaxation, once or twice a month is usually enough. Regular sessions help maintain flexibility, reduce stiffness, and prevent the buildup of muscle tension.

Who should get a Deep Tissue Massage?

Deep Tissue Massage is ideal for athletes, travelers, yoga practitioners, and anyone with chronic muscle pain, stiffness, or injury recovery needs. It's also perfect for people who sit at a desk for long hours or carry physical stress in their neck, shoulders, or back.

What are the benefits of Deep Tissue Massage?

This therapy helps in improving flexibility, posture, and range of motion. It also enhances blood circulation, flushes toxins from the body, reduces inflammation, and promotes faster recovery from injuries or physical exertion. Many clients report feeling deeply relaxed and re-energized afterward.

Can Deep Tissue Massage help with back pain or sciatica?

Yes. Deep Tissue Massage is particularly effective for relieving lower back pain, sciatica, and tightness around the hips and spine. Our certified therapists at the Institute of Natural Medicine in Thamel use specialized techniques to release tension and improve mobility in affected areas.

How should I prepare for my Deep Tissue Massage?

Arrive at least 15 minutes early to complete a brief health consultation form. Drink plenty of water before and after your massage to help flush out toxins released during the session. It's also recommended to wear comfortable clothing and avoid eating heavy meals beforehand.

Are there any side effects after a Deep Tissue Massage?

Some people may experience mild soreness or tenderness for a day or two after the massage, which is normal and temporary. Drinking water and taking light rest helps the body recover and enhance the therapeutic benefits.

How much does a Deep Tissue Massage cost in Kathmandu?

At the Institute of Natural Medicine, we offer high-quality Deep Tissue Massage sessions at affordable rates compared to commercial spas in Thamel. The price depends on the duration (typically 1.5 to 2 hours), and you can also combine it with therapies like Ayurvedic Massage, Thai Massage, or Reiki Healing for a complete rejuvenation experience.
